

RESUME OF DR RAKHI MAIWALL

Dr Rakhi Maiwall is currently working at Institute of Liver and Biliary Sciences, New Delhi, India as an Assistant Professor in the Department of Hepatology. She has completed her MBBS in 2003 with 3 gold medals and finished her MD Internal Medicine from Lucknow University in 2007 with gold medal. She has done her DM in gastroenterology from Christian Medical College, Vellore in 2011. She is hard working, efficient and compassionate in patient care. She has the capability and skills of performing both upper and lower GI diagnostic and therapeutic procedures with an exposure to ERCPs. She also has experience in hepatic hemodynamics (Hepatic Venous Pressure Gradient measurement). She is presently working for ILBS-ECHO project of telemedicine for training general physicians in rural and semi-urban areas of India in the management chronic liver related disorders particularly Hepatitis C and B virus related.

We will be presenting a case on role of partial splenic artery embolization in management of recurrent hepatic encephalopathy in a cirrhotic patient.