

Professor Garry Warne,
Royal Children's Hospital (RCH), Melbourne, Australia

Professor Garry Warne was director of endocrinology at RCH for 19 years, and established an internationally recognized paediatric endocrine service. He is highly regarded for his research into disorders of sexual development. He is an outstanding clinician, researcher and teacher, and an advocate for international child health. In 1998 he established RCH International (RCHI) which supports health care for children in the Asia-Pacific region and he continues to be very active in this area, including in remote consultation to Vietnam.